

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A portable clipper holding apparatus includes a generally "S"-shaped structure having a first arch and a second arch, the first and second arches positioned in an inverted relationship to one another. The first arch is configured for engaging a substrate and the said
5 second arch configured for receiving at least one clipper and/or accessories.